Colours are the Smiles of Nature

Grass is lush and green,
Above it, blue skies we've seen,
The moon, so white and round,
In clouds, it's often found.

The sun is yellow,
The trees are brown,
The leaves are red,
When falling down.

At sunset, hues of orange appear,
A sight that fills our hearts with cheer,
The air is crisp and clear,
What a wondrous world we have here.

What is love?

What really is love?

Is it letters and white doves?

Or is it hugs and chocolates?

Maybe it is , it is neither maybe.

Is it just a feeling?

Or is it just a myth?

Maybe it is neither.

Love is like a bud,

A bud of white lotus in the mud,

Like the sun, it brings light

To the dullness in the sight

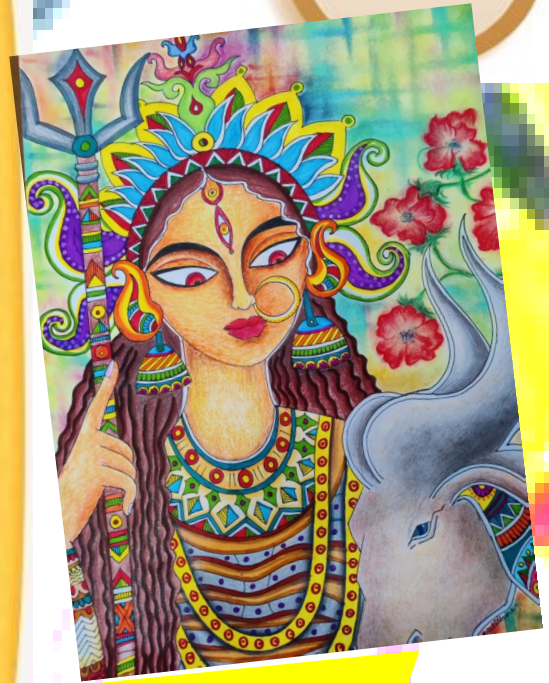

Making everything alright.

I think love is an experience,

One that brings exultation in our lives,

But only if it is taken care of, it thrives.

The Young Petals

I had some petals on my palm,
Red and yellow; cold and calm.
They flew with just a blow; Mild and slow.
I saw them going far and away,
But one stood scared on my palm,
forgotten its way, A little wet and sad...
Was left alone but then I realized;
It was a baby learning to grow, afraid of the big -wide world,
Protected in the warm but harsh hearth.
All alone, not brave and smart But learning to grow...

National Stress Awareness Month

CWSN
Activities

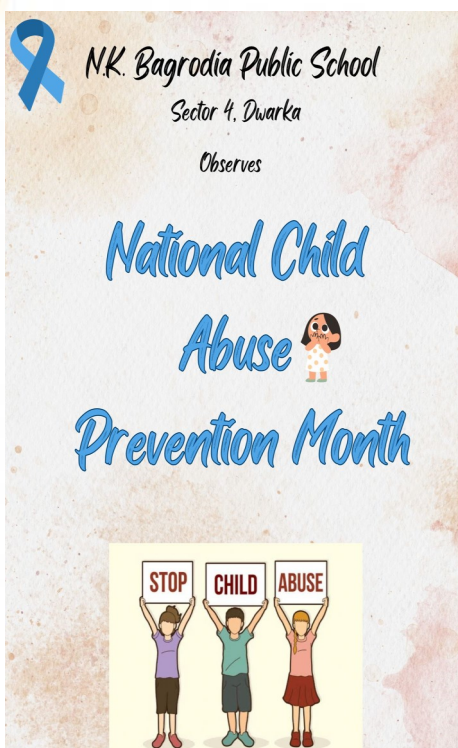

April is recognized as National Stress Awareness Month to bring attention to the negative impact of stress. Managing stress is an essential component of a healthy lifestyle. Knowing how to manage stress can improve mental and physical well-being as well as minimize exacerbation of health-related issues. Stress awareness doesn't mean that we should wallow in stress and feel bad. It means we should be aware of the health consequences of stress so we can make good choices for ourselves and our families. Students with poor stress management run a higher risk of developing serious diseases. Depression, anxiety, insomnia, high blood pressure, obesity, and Alzheimers are only a few of the issues they may face. In severe cases, stress has also been linked to suicidal thoughts and tendencies. To spread awareness about stress in the school, the students got involved in various class discussions and activities. Emphasis was on creating a positive school environment thereby, encouraging students to talk about stressful situations, recognizing stressors and ending the discussion with positive affirmations.
